

Mrs Franklin, Assistant Head, Curriculum, DDSP

From a very early age, it was my ambition to become a teacher. My mother tells me that I often spent the long summer days teaching the local children in the street and when they were not available I would teach my teddies!

I achieved my ambition at the age of 22.

My teaching career started in London. Next, I moved to Hitchin and now I am teaching in Stevenage.

Every day, I am fortunate enough to have the opportunity to work with children who are keen to learn and to watch them flourish as they discover new learning.

My other interests are looking after my two grown up children and caring for my lively dog and cat. In addition I can often be found exploring London. I often visit the museums or spend an evening at the theatre.
